Hello Everyone,

You may have realised I haven't been in touch for a while – I had a fall last summer in which I managed to break my right arm in four places – I never do things by halves!! I tripped over the garden hose whilst watering my plant pots and landed on the stone patio, a stupid thing to do! It's been a long and often painful journey but, thanks to the wonderful orthopaedic team, both here at Noble's Hospital and also at Wigan's Wrightington, on the mainland, and my equally wonderful GP, physiotherapist and chiropractor, I can now do everything again. Even type! Everyone was so kind and understanding over those months: family, friends, colleagues and all my readers. And Headline, my publishers, were extremely understanding about the fact that I could not finish THE LIVERPOOL MATCHGIRL in time for the December publication. But I eventually did complete it and it will be published in hardback and e-book on 6th March, just in time for Mother's Day. We have also been negotiating contracts for e-book sales to America for all my titles, so that's something else to look forward to if you live on the other side of the Atlantic from me.

Sadly, last year we had to cancel our holiday plans but now I am really looking forward to a cruise to the Canary Islands next month on Cunard's Queen Victoria and then I'm looking forward to having the family over in the summer and thinking up some new storylines. Today the sun is shining and I've seen the first daffodil out in the garden, although I've seen lots all over the island. Spring is definitely on the way so enjoy it and the coming warmer months and I'll be back with more news before the Autumn,

Lyn
